Gaiety Land provided us with all sorts of fun and gambling and side-shows. For a couple of annas we could watch anything in any booth - from performing parrots to crack motorcyclists looping the Dome of Death. There were lotteries and shooting galleries. Here, for just eight annas you could acquire prizes that ranged from pincushions, sewing machines, cameras to even a road engine.

One evening they drew the ticket number 1005, and I happened to own it. Glancing down the list, they declared that I had become the owner of the road engine! Don't ask me how a road engine came to be included among the prizes. I was stunned. People gathered around and gazed at me as if I were a strange animal. It was not the sort of prize one could carry home at short notice.

Power Foods

Power foods are foods that provide rich levels of nutrients like fibre, potassium and minerals. A lot of fitness trainers encourage their clients to include these foods in their daily diet to increase muscle development. Of course, the key to enjoying power foods is proper preparation of these foods, the use of season-fresh foods, and identifying your choice of flavour among power foods.

Some of the recommended power food combinations are those that are prepared in our kitchens on a regular basis. Take for instance, the combination of chickpeas and onions. This combination is a powerful source of iron which is required by the body to transport oxygen to its various parts. A study by the 'Journal of Agricultural and Food Chemistry' says that sulphur compounds in onion and garlic help in the absorption of iron and zinc from chickpeas. A quick way to prepare this power food is to make a chickpea salad with chopped onions, chaat masala and cilantro.
