(3x1=3)

Jim and Della were very proud of two things they owned. One was Jim's gold watch. It had once belonged to his father. And, long ago, it had belonged to his father's father. With a chain on his watch, Jim could look at it and learn the time anywhere he might be. Though the watch was so distinctive, it had never had a fine chain. He sometimes took it out and looked at it only when no one could see him do it.

The other thing was Della's hair. Della knew her hair was more beautiful than any queen's gold or gems. So now Della's beautiful hair fell around her, shining, like a falling stream of brown water. It reached below her knee. It almost made itself into a dress for her. And then she put it up on her head again, nervously and quickly. She stopped for a moment and stood still while a tear or two ran down her face.

She put on her old brown coat and old brown hat. With the bright light still in her eyes, she moved quickly out the door and down to the street.

(3x1=3)

All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players;
They have their exits and their entrances;
And one man in his time plays many parts,
His acts being seven ages.

At first the infant,
Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms;
And then the whining school-boy, with his satchel
And shining morning face, creeping like snail Unwillingly to school.

4. How does the poet describe the men and women in the poem?

5. What does the newborn do?

A) Mewling and puking B) Whining and laughing

C) Creeping and running D) Dragging and yelling

6. Identify an instance of simile from the stanzas above.

7. Read the lines from Caged Bird and using the hints given below, write a short paragraph summarising the ideas contained in the lines. (1x4=4)

A free bird leaps
on the back of the wind and floats downstream till the current ends and dips his wing
in the orange sun rays and dares to claim the sky.

But a bird that stalks down his narrow cage can seldom see through his bars of rage,
his wings are clipped and his feet are tied so he opens his throat to sing.

[Hints: Maya Angelou - opposing experiences of two birds - one lives freely - one in a cage - oppression - yearning for freedom - extended metaphor – imageries - alliteration]

Questions 8-10: Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow. (3x1=3)

Leo lived in a small village where there was frequent power failure. When the power died, the fans stopped spinning, and the nights became very hot. Most people just complained, but Leo spent his time in his backyard with a pile of old wires and shiny foil. "What are you building, Leo?" his friend Sam asked. "I'm building a kite that catches the sun," Leo said. Sam laughed. "Kites are for playing, not for power! "Leo didn't mind. He knew that the higher you go, the stronger the sunlight and the wind. He used lightweight plastic and covered it with thin solar strips he found at a recycling centre. He used a long copper wire as the kite's string to send the energy back down to earth.

One Saturday, the village transformer blew out. The whole town was dark. Leo took his kite to the top of the hill. He ran fast, and the wind caught the foil. The kite soared high above the trees, shining like a diamond. Back at his house, Leo plugged the end of the copper string into a large battery. Slowly, a small LED lamp began to glow. Then, he plugged in a small fan. His neighbours gathered around, feeling the cool air. They realized that Leo wasn't just playing. He had found a way to use the sky to help the village.
